

Who steals my purse steals trash.
But he who filches from me my good editorials,
Robs me of that which makes me mad indeed.
—Shakespeare revised.

Private and public interest should be identical.

W. Clark Russell's new collection of short stories will be a "Book for the Hammock."

Joe Chandler Harris, "Uncle Remus," is said to do all his literary work with a goosequill.

Protection in freight means injustice and injury to some one. Protection in any one business means taxation on other industries to support it.

We would like to know what good has or will come from the 700 pages of testimony taken by the Inter-State commission at Memphis?

Mr. Sol Smith Russell is going to settle in Minnesota with his father-in-law, Mr. William T. Adams. The latter, best known as "Oliver Optic," is now nearly 65 years old, and not in good health.

The full names of the members of President Cleveland's cabinet are William Crowninshield Endicott, William Freeman Vilas, William Collins Whitney, Lucius Quintus Curtiss Lamar and Charles Stebbins Fairchild.

Bill Nye says he expects to make a great deal of money out of his new book, because it is "larger and thicker" than any he ever published before. "What the public wants," he adds, "is a big book—one that can be used to prop up the lounge when its leg is broken."

Some Washington ladies have introduced the fashion of wearing rings on their thumbs. The Chinese embassy is responsible for this. When the Congo free state sends a native representative there will probably be a "great run on nose rings," as the trade papers put it.

John B. McCormick has been connected with the Philadelphia News, for the past few years, and during that time his letters over the signature of "Macon," have been welcome additions to the literature of the time. He has transferred his fortunes to the Evening Sun, New York.

The life of one little child is worth more than all the dogs that have inhabited the earth from the dawn of creation down to the present time. Ninety-nine out of every hundred worthless curs that infest the land ought to be killed off and the hundredth one put under heavy bonds.—Topeka Capital.

The rapid advance Kansas has made in population, and the wonderful production of her soil, excites the wonder of the world. The untiring energy of our people, backed by a fine climate and rich soil, has sent us ahead of all western states. Release us from unjust railroad discrimination, and unjust taxation to support eastern manufacturing establishments, and we can soon bid good-bye to states east of us.

"To discontinue an advertisement," says John Wamaker, the largest advertiser in the world, "is like taking down your sign. If you want to do business you must let the public know it. Standing advertisements, when changed frequently, are cheaper and better than reading notices. They look more substantial and business like, and inspire confidence. I would as soon think of doing business without clerks as without advertising."

Referring to the late disaster by which 150 men and boys lost their lives in a mine at Vancouver, the Philadelphia Record very truly says: "There have been recent mining disasters that no human foresight could have prevented, but the extent of some of the calamities might have been lessened had there been other shafts by which the men could have escaped. It is an outrage against humanity that workers should be paid starvation wages and then be left in the event of an accident as helpless as rats in a trap."

In a recent number of the New York Times, we find the following: "If the people come to a realization of the fact that the money is being taken out of their pockets for no good use, which must either be squandered in extravagant appropriations or hoarded up in the treasury, they will take prompt measures to see that taxation is reduced. And when it comes to a question whether the taxes shall be taken off from liquor and tobacco, or from the materials of manufacture, the choice shall not be doubtful or long delayed. If the case shall be presented in this way, as there is every reason to think that it will, tariff reform will come about with a certainty that will surprise a good many theorists on both sides of the water."

For a number of years the farmers of the West, in fact all consumers, have been heavily taxed, to build up and enrich a few manufacturers in the East. It is hoped that the people of the West will be able to understand that money is being taken out of their pockets, to be squandered on extravagant appropriations or hoarded up in the treasury. At the last session of Congress a move was made to relieve us from unjust taxation. Every member from Kansas voted no. If Eastern monopolists is the God our representatives serve, it is high time the people discard them and choose men that will represent their interests.

The recent report that Parnell was seriously ill, is denied. The Tories would like to report his death.

The London Times' forged Parnell letter is obstructing the passage of the coercion bill, and helping the liberal cause.

Lieut. Danenhower is said to have remarked once, in a lecture on the Jeannette expedition, "The North pole is on ice and will keep."

Buffalo Bill's Wild West show is having a boom in England. The way Bill's gun brings down the Indians depicts the heart of the civilized European.

The people of Cloud county are to be congratulated on the bright Daylight they now enjoy, but still there is one drawback to their comfort, it must be rather annoying to have an editor alway Dunning.

Every attempt at manufacturing along the lines of the Union Pacific railroad has been frozen out. The reason for this unjust discrimination is easily accounted for. The managers are interested in eastern factories.

The district agent of one of the popular lines passing through Indianapolis sold only $500 worth of tickets in April as against $3,000 worth in March. We would like to know how much the railroads are to be benefited by putting on the screws to make the Inter-State law odious.

The republican legislative committee, of Connecticut, recently reported a resolution declaring injurious the tariff taxes on lumber, coal, iron, wood, salt, and copper ore. What is the matter with the high tariff plank in the G. O. P. platform? It appears to be falling out.

An exchange says: "Some of our contemporaries, who do not know as much about the scriptures as they should, are printing a paragraph stating that St. Paul has a great advantage over Minneapolis, as it is frequently mentioned in the Bible." Will one of these Biblical scholars please point out the chapter and verse where St. Paul is mentioned?

"Alas, for the partly of true Christian charity."

Such charity as the following: "One of the Boston ministers tells a story of Phillips Brooks, which is quite too Brooksy not to be true. The minister had occasion to look up a very poor family, and climbed up four flights of stairs in a noisome tenement house on his errand. His tap at the door was answered by Phillips Brooks with a baby in his arms. Inquiry revealed the fact that the woman had been very sick and sorely needed fresh air, but had no one with whom to leave her little baby. Phillips Brooks found her out, gave her tickets for a horse-car ride, and was staying tending the baby while she enjoyed it."

The story told by Senator Stanford, President of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, as to how he earned his first dollar, is given to the public by a newspaper correspondent. It was by gathering a lot of horse-radish, cleaning and selling it, when he was a boy six years of age. The Senator remembers it "just as well as if it had happened yesterday," and no event in his life since has given him "so much gratification." The Senator will be given an opportunity, before the Pacific Railroad Investigating Committee is through with its labors, to tell how he earned the majority of his subsequent dollars. It is to be hoped that his memory will be equally fresh with regard to the processes by which he obtained them. It is perhaps natural that the remembrance of how he acquired these later dollars should be less gratifying than that relating to his first dollar.—World.

We have no doubt but more than one Senator could, if he would, tell how he earned his last dollar.

Senator Edmunds received a letter lately from a little Savannah girl who had read in a newspaper that he had ways of his own for making soup and calvesfoot jelly. She wrote to him for information, inclosing a sprig of jessamine, and got the following reply: "Dear Little Miss—I have your note with the pretty jessamine flower. With the truthfulness of youth you believe what the newspapers print, but they have misled you in this instance. I do not know how to make soup or calvesfoot jelly. I sometimes think I know how to make briefs and laws, that, like soup are sometimes digestible, and I fear, sometimes not. Cookery is a real art, and I hope you will learn it perfectly and grow up to be a true American woman, knowing how to do everything that makes a home happy."

A picnic poet: Now let us to the Woodland hie, where trees their verdure wrap, for spring no longer lingers in old burly winter's lap. In picnic garb we'll amble forth, and sit beneath the trees, and have our hides all chopped and hacked with stings of bumblebees. We'll gaily don our linen coats, and thin seersucker pants, and sit beside the gurgling stream, while o'er us crawl the ants. We'll swallow dollars lemonade, to moisten down our grub, which people make by soaking one cheap lemon in a tub. The guileless sandwich we shall eat, devour the clammy pie, and sit on bowls of custard while a tear bedims our eye. We'll tip the mustard in the jam, the pepper in the tea, and try with all our might to show that we are filled with glee. Then let us to the picnic hie, our basket in our hand, and homeward come filled up with woe, and leaves, and dust and sand.—Ec.
